ROYAL

BUT DR. W. W. BALDWIN IS A THOR OUGH AMERICAN.

Declares That the Children of a American Citizen Cannot Be Properly Brought Up in Europe -Sentiment Toward

After eighteen years spent in his profession in Europe, Dr. W. W. Baldwin, of Rome, Italy, who is in the city, says he never has had so great a desire to return to his native country as has possessed him

'The superiority of the American people as a whole and the greatness of the nation as compared with the people and counme more deeply every day since my landing," said he last night at the Coates. Dr. Baldwin is eminent as a diagnostician, and numbers among his patients many of the nobility and royalty of Europe. It was he who made a chart of the heart of the late empress of Austria while at a resort in the Alps, shortly before her assassination. Twice each year he visits the Duchess of York, and he has attended Gladstone, Salisbury and other famous men of Europe

'I have realized in recent years that the children of an American citizen cannot be properly brought up and educated in Eu-"I want my children to be Americans by education as well as by na-tivity. The greatness of our people lies in the general enlightenment and the enorthe general enlightenment and the enormous rush and go. In the street car, about the stores, everywhere, I see the alertness and infelligence of the masses. They are accessible for the reason that they want to lose nothing that may be of value in any to lose nothing that may be of value in any way.

"European society is far more picturesque: it is like looking at mountains and valleys, where there are so many classes, each with its varying shades and colorings of history. Here it is more uniform; there is not so much difference in them, but they are infinitely more interesting. The American is finch broader than the European, take it all in all; he is freer from prejudices, racial and national. It might be said that the knowledge of the American and European is like two circles that intereset, but with a small are. Matters of great interest to one are of little value to the other; farther from the center or entirely without the circumference. I have often been astonished to hear a question propounded to me: 'Do you know so-andso in Buenos Ayres?' No American would be apt to ask a German if he knew some one in South Africa.

Narrowness of Europeans.

Narrowness of Europeans.

"The narrowness of the people in Italy, Germany and France was displayed during the Spanish war. I had to stand up and preach the greatness of my country many times; and at a German club in orence I was hissed when I denounced the inhumanity of Spain's war against Cu-There is a natural courtesy about the Italians in their severest comments about ba. There is a natural courtesy about the Italians in their severest comments about the Americans. The Germans abused us like pickpockets. It was very disagreeable to have to talk with a German about war or the issues of the conflict.

"There is a decided change in the attitude of Europeans of all nationalities toward Americans since the war. They have a wholesome respect for Americans and things American. They are really cheerful about it, too; they don't make reservations as they used to when saying something favorable of this country.

"The Italian people, among whom I have lived for eighteen years, nearly all that time a resident of Florence, are not decadent, as are the French. There is still reserve power in the blood. They are very industrious and prolific, and were it not for the bad government great progress would be made. The people are for the government's use, not the government for theirs. The army is taking money that should go into the schools and homes."

Dr. Baldwin has been inspecting farms which he owns in Kansas. He had never seen them before, and being scattered in all parts of the state, he formed an estimate of the country. "I believe it will be eventually one great garden spot. I notleed so much idle land, it seemed thousands of acres on every hand had never been touched by the plow. With the pictures of European valleys fresh in my mind I could not help but fancy the whole state under close cultivation, with its rivers confined by stone embankments and its cities improved accordingly."

AN OLD RESIDENT DEAD.

Dennis Vaughn, Who Had Lived Here Thirty Years, Passes Away at His Home.

Dennis Vaughn, a native of Ireland, but who has been for thirty years a resident of Kansas City, died yesterday of dropsy at his home, 2018 Jefferson street. He came to Kansas City from Quincy, Ill., in 1869, when he was 27 years old. Soon after he came here he began working for the Kan-sas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs rail-way, and for the sixteen years previous to 180, was a foreman in the company's 1886, was a foreman in the company's freight house.

About that time the death of his brother, Andrew, called him to take charge of the saloon they owned in partnership, at the corner of Penn and Twenty-second streets, to which he gave his attention until six months ago, when he was confined to his home with the sickness that ended in his death. His widow and three children survive him. Two sons are employes of the New York Life Insurance Company and a daughter is attending school at Conception, Mo.

The funeral will be held Sunday at 9:30 o clock a.m., from the Sacred Heart church, and the body will be buried in Mount St. Mary's cemetery.

DEATH OF MISS CASTEEN.

Popular Kansas City, Kas., Young Woman Succumbs to Typhoid Fever.

Miss Ora Casteen, who was recently apointed stamp clerk at the local postoffice, died yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of her parents, 1617 Ann avenue Kansas City, Kas., of typhold fever. She had seen ill for six weeks, during which time she had several sinking spells. About two weeks ago she rallied and the attending physicians announced her chances for recovery very much improved. However, she suffered a relapse ten days ago and her condition gradually became more critical. She was surrounded by her relatives and many of her young friends when the end came.

Costs Money to Condemn.

The council will be given an illustration Monday night of the fact that it costs money to conduct condemnation proceedings, and that the park board cannot do business of this kind unless it has the funds. The court costs for the condemnation proceedings on Linwood boulevard were $721, and if the plans of the board are carried out there will be several thousands of dollars of similar costs to pay this year.

Miss Chateen was 25 years old, and was to have been married this month to a prominent young physician of Chicago. She was a member of Kansas City, Kas., society, and had friends and admirers by the scores. Her untimely death will be mourned by many in the metropolis.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock at the house, after which the remains will be taken to Anthony, Kas., over the Missouri Pacific road.

DEATH OF REV. M. A. WELKER. Well Known Minister Dies of Typhoid Malaria, After a Lingering Illness. Rev. Mr. W. A. Walker died yesterday at his late home, 617 New Jersey avenue, Kansas City, Kas., of typhold malaria. The deceased had been ill for several weeks. and the attending physicians abandoned hope for his recovery several days ago. He was 56 years old, having spent many years of his life in the ministry. He was a member of the Washington Avenue Methodist church of this city. The arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

"MAN BEHIND THE GUN."

James F. Fulton's Play Produced a the Auditorium Before an Enthusinstic Audience.

If all audiences which witness James F. Fulton's naval drama, "The Man Behind the Gun," are as enthusiastic as that which witnessed its initial production at the Auditorium last night, this "play will be the thing" wherever Dewey and Funbe the thing" wherever Dewey and Fun-ston are applauded, and that is all over this country, and for many years to come. It was a large audience. Vacant seats were as scarce as on a Mansfield night. In enthusiasm it was a gallery audience, but in personnel it was representative of Kansas City. The play was received with a spontaneous favor which augurs well for its future success. Though most of the parts were taken by amateurs, the play went with a vim and dash that indicated the possibilities of a production by pro-fessionals.

Miss Fulton was pleasing as Mary Mason, Raymond's sweetheart; Helen Fox was vivacious as Lillian Price, and Miss Jessie

The battleship scene was somewhat marred by the fallure of the mechanism

IT COST MR. BARR $40,000. Settlement of Hopkins Suit-Miss Calvert Contributed Nothing Toward the Compromise.

Attorneys for the contestants in the Hopkins will case, now in process of settlement, estimate that it has cost Thomas M. Barr $40,000 to compromise the suit. The sums he has paid to the litigants are all in addition to the bequests made to them in the tion to the bequests made to them in the will. These, of course, were all of little consequence except that of Mrs. Narcissa Nelson, a sister, of Indianapolis, Ind., who received a bequest of $4,000. Mr. Parr gave her $5,500 to sign a quitclaim deed, thus making the total sum that she will realize from the estate, $3,500. Others will receive from $1,000 to $3,000 each, including bequest and compromise money.

Although Mr. Barr has paid out $40,000 to end litigation, he is said to have not less than $15,000, or possibly $200,000, left as his share of the estate. He is an old bachelor and still lives at 418 West Tenth street, the boarding house conducted by Miss Harriet Colvert, the other beneficiary of the Hopkins will.

Calvert, the other beneficiary of the Hopkins will.

It is considered rather strange that Miss Calvert, although as much interested in effecting the compromise as Mr. Barr, contributed nothing toward it. Mr. Barr paid it all.

DEWEY, INDIAN TERRITORY. B. Woodard Attracts Much Attention by Registering From

That Patriotic Town. A stranger created some consternation in the lobby of the New Albany hotel on Union avenue last night by boldly stepping up to the counter and signing: "T. B. Woodard, Dewey, Indian Territory."

Many persons looked at the unusal name that had been written as the postoffice address of Mr. Woodard and many were the questions that were asked him regarding the town that is named after the hero of Manila.

"Yes, we are patriotic in our part of the country," said Mr. Woodard, "and we never lose an opportunity to show that we remember the greatest hero of the war."

That the mention of the name of the admiral attracts attention is proved by the many questions that have been asked Mr. Woodard concerning Dewey, I. T.

The Strait Manufacturing Company, in Armourdale, is now working night and day on an order from Harvey & Co., of St. Johns, Newfoundland, for coopers' machinery. Harvey & Co. is one of the largest cooperage houses in the world, and supplies all the boxes and barrels for the fish trade along the coast. The local firm received the order because it guaranteed to get the work out in a short time and give only a first-class machine. A number of Eastern cities competed for the work but the Kansas City firm was successful.

The Strait company also has a large order for cooper machinery from the sugar trust. In New York, and an order for a number of scales for Honolulu.
